CONFEDERATE ROSE TREE

A Native from China, flowers are double. The fun of wearing the flower is to watch it change color at about the time the first luncheon course is served, turning from a creamy white to an ineffably delicate and lovely blush-pink by dessert, and becoming a deep pink-rose by late afternoon. This magical chemical change takes place whether or not one is wearing the flower. On the bush the same mysterious process goes inexorable on.

Blooming size $1.00

SCARLET WISTERIA TREE (Poinciana Regia). A very rapid growing tree with fern-like leaves. A mass of scarlet wisteria-like flowers in spring. Will bloom from seed in two years.

Large size trees $1.00. Seeds 15 for .25c postpaid.

THE VETIVER PLANT (Vetiveria Zizanioides)

A native of India. Naturalized in Louisiana by early colonist as an ornamental plant. Now in many localities it flourishes as a wild plant. The roots of Vetiver carry perfume. The tiny rootlets of Vetiver give to laces and linens an indefinable fragrance which once enjoyed is never forgotten. Vetiver is beautiful on the lawn, it is a noble perennial plant with big clumps and graceful nodding spikes 6 feet high. Hotels in Louisiana use Vetiver to scent linens.

THE BOTANICAL WONDER PLANT (Fatshedera Lizei)

This unusual house plant is a bi-generic hybrid between the English ivy (Hedera) and a Japanese plant named Fatsia Japonica. It originated as a chance seedling in the nurseries of Lize Freres at Nantes, France in 1910, and was first placed on public exhibition two years later. It is a semi-climber with large glossy leaves similar to hedera. Plants each $1.00

SUCCULENTS: Wart Plant (Harworthia Subfaciata); Panda Plant (Kalanchoe Tomentosa); Lace Haworthia (H. Setata); Zebra Haworthia (H. Fasciata); Pearl Aloe (A. Bequinii); Coral Bead (Sedum Stahlia); Crimson Kalanchoe (K. Globulifera); Pen-wiper Plant (K. Marmorata); Tiger Aloe (A. Variegata); Elephant Feed Plant (Portulacaria); Christ Thorn (Euphorbia Splendens); Flowering Aloe (A. Aristata); Jewel Plant (Titanopsis Calcareum); Dwarf Aloe (A. Aristata); Polka Dot Aloe (Orange Flowers). Each35

PLANT VETIVER (Vetiveria zizanioides). Known as the Khas, Khas grass of India. It has an aromatic rhizome that has been used in medicine and perfumes from prehistoric times. In India the grass is used to make screens called vesaries which when kept wet and placed in a current of air, cools and perfumes the atmosphere. The rhizomes when laid among clothing are said to keep away moths. Small plants 35c, Medium 50c, Large $1.00
Dried Vetiver root cellophane wrapped per pkg. 15c 2 for 25c.

VETIVER IN VERMONT

Sweet vetiver (Vetiveria zizanioides), the plant beloved in the South for its light, refreshing fragrance, thrived in my Vermont garden this summer. A clump of this, or even a single plant, is worth tucking into an old corner.

Vetiver fragrance does not come from the undistinguished flowers, or from the long stiff leaves that look like the foilage of the house plant billbergia in a richer, darker green. No, the coveted part of this plant is the root. It can be ground and used for sachets.

Vetiver made a thrifty, interesting clump in the garden. It is now resting in the basement, perhaps dreaming of its Louisiana home.—Naomi M. Ingalls (Vt.) —Reprinted from Flower Grower.
